FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 56.
The food that bankrupted the health of the German sailors aboard the Kronprinz Wilhelm. Consisted of the typical American meal, fresh beef, boiled, mashed, and fried potatoes, canned vegetables, white bread, sweet biscuits, butter, lard, coffee, condensed milk, and sugar.

Sunday night, April 11, 1915, the converted cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, after sinking fourteen French and British merchantmen, successfully followed her raiding predecessor, the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, by running the gauntlet through the cordon of British battleships patrolling the Atlantic at the mouth of the James river and safely reached the harbor of Newport News.

We are not at all concerned with the dare-devil exploits of this swash-buckling raider of the sea, but with the consequences of her marvelous experience we are indeed deeply concerned.

When she flashed into port with all lights out under a full head of steam, 111 of her crew of 500 were completely prostrated and the others were on the verge of prostration.

The newspapers of the United States published a report that the sick sailors were "the victims of beri-beri, caused by eating polished rice." The peculiar fact of their experience is that they did not eat polished rice.

Government expert state experts and specialists in private practice and great numbers of eminent health officers and physicians went into consultation over the curious disease. All agreed that it was beri-beri and apparently all assumed that polished rice must have caused the trouble.

The medical magazines had been filled with discussions of beri-beri, always associating it with a diet of polished rice. Hence it was quite orthodox to think of beri-beri and polished rice together.

In the mystery, tragedy, contradiction and disease that brooded in the heart of that once palatial ship the doctors were asking these questions: How does beri-beri differ from pellagra?

How does it differ from scurvy? Why is the disease not scurvy instead of beri-beri, or why is it not pellagra instead of either?

The bewilderment of the doctors was not wonderful for the Kronprinz Wilhelm was herself but a symbol of the present bewilderment of the world.

As I watched that sombre gray hulk lying in the harbor with her four gray smokestacks and her four gray funnels, I realized that locked up in her solemn heart was a great truth of unrecognized significance which America must soon learn or for her continued ignorance and indifference pay a dismal price.

After talking with the ship's surgeon, Dr. E. Perrenon, and the ship's cook, I knew that the Kronprinz Wilhelm had indeed a message for the American people as well as for the rest of the world.

Why were the men so sick? Polished rice never appeared oftener than once in twenty-one meals aboard the ship.

What was the nature of the disease which had caused the German cruiser to abandon her raiding career? The answer to these questions goes right into the root of the public health problems of the United States, thrilling the investigator who seeks a cause for the untimely deaths of 1,000,000 children under ten years of age in the United States during the past four years, and for the constant increase of organic heart disease, hardening of the arteries, cancer, diabetes, Bright's disease, and the other physical infirmities which are attacking middle life and which, with tuberculosis, are destroying countless thousands every day.

What did the German sailors eat? After leaving Hoboken on Aug. 3, 1914, the German cruiser roamed the sea for 27 days, living on supplies taken from British merchantmen and French ships which she would then strip and blow to pieces.

During these 27 days she touched at no port, depending entirely for food and provisions upon her raiding ability and her wonderful speed in escaping French and British battleships.

Throughout all her operations she took the life of no human being, as far as the death of a human being is concerned, she brought her message undisturbed to those who have with which to hear and eyes with which to see.

It was her food that bankrupted the health of her sailors. That food consisted of the typical American meal, fresh beef, boiled, mashed, and fried potatoes, canned vegetables, white bread, butter, sweet biscuits, lard, coffee, condensed milk, and sugar.

For the first time in the history of the world men were forced to live exclusively on food for four days, thereby establishing a prolonged poison squad experience before which the so-called scientific short-time feeding experiments are put to shame.

Never was a poison squad like it before. If exclusive feeding on white bread, butter, potatoes, fresh meat, canned vegetables, biscuits, sweet cakes, large coffee, condensed milk and sugar is followed by a diet of white bread, butter, potatoes, fresh meat, canned vegetables, biscuits, sweet cakes, large coffee, condensed milk and sugar, it is followed by a diet of white bread, butter, potatoes, fresh meat, canned vegetables, biscuits, sweet cakes, large coffee, condensed milk and sugar.

At all the opportunity has come at last to determine what those consequences are.

Behind the record of the Kronprinz Wilhelm is a complete, and so quickly followed by another lesson of the significance of food. It will be well for use to examine in detail the startling truths which have been thus disclosed.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answered by Alfred W. McCann.

Q. Are the following cereals and breakfast foods wholesome and nourishing?

Wheatena, Puffed Rice, Yellow Corn Meal, White Corn Meal, Grape Nuts, Corn Flakes, Krumbles.

A. Wheatena is not made from whole wheat.

Puffed rice is made from polished and denatured rice.

Puffed wheat is made of whole wheat. The yellow corn meal of the grocery store is made of degerminated and demineralized corn.

The white corn meal of the grocery store is made in the same way.

Grape nuts are made of whole wheat minus part of the bran.

Corn flakes are made of demineralized, degerminated corn.

I know nothing about krumbles.

Q. I want to know something about that much maligned and poor old commonplace potato. I want to know how it compares with carrots, parsnips and turnips. I want to know something about its digestibility and proper means of cooking it so as to save all its food value for the table. I have long believed the average American can family squanders its food and its health. I think the potato is almost as important as bread. What do you think?

A. The potato, carrot, parsnip, turnip, beet, and radish contain large quantities of water, ranging from 70 to 93 per cent, which fact does not in the least make them any the worse, but, on the contrary, proves that they are just what they ought to be in accordance with the way God made them.

The turnip contains the most water and the sweet potato the least. The protein content of all these roots and tubers is exceedingly low, averaging less than 2 per cent. Yet on a diet of potatoes a hog will build up hams that contain so much protein that they are consumed as steady diet they will cause protein poisoning. There is more tummyrot published about protein than any other good superstition.

The starch and sugar content of these roots and tubers runs between 5 per cent for turnips up to 22 per cent for sweet potatoes.

The ordinary, commonplace, poor old potato, of the kind that gets to the dinner table about every day in the year, contains about 15 per cent of starch.

The mineral content of the much maligned potato is high. The potato is particularly rich in salts or potassium, in which respect it differs from various other tubers, which are rich in calcium salts.

More than one scientist has observed the fact that wherever potatoes are used scurvy is unknown. Potatoes are the enemy of scurvy. Unfortunately, thoughtless methods of cooking rob the potato of a great part of its mineral content.

Cooking by means of steam in their jackets is much more preferable than boiling. Potatoes cooked by steaming in their jackets do not lose their salts. Boiled in their skins they do lose some of their salts. Peeled and boiled they lose most of them.

The ideal method of cooking a potato is to bake it in its skin. If the skin is brushed before it goes into the oven and baked crisp it is a good thing to eat. My advice is to love the potato "jackets" and thrive on them.

By the action of hydrochloric or sulphurous acid potatoes are hydrolyzed, whereupon they become gincase, table cruets, and cruet. These highly engaging forms they are robbed entirely of their mineral content and have no food value except as heat producers.

LAST OF SINGLE MEN IN GREAT BRITAIN ARE TAKEN INTO SERVICE

London, May 10.—Beginning today, the last of Great Britain's single men, eligible for army service, began to get into khaki.

In all sections of the country, young men of 18 years of age reported at supply depots and changed their civilian raiment for army duds. They will remain in training until they have reached the age of nineteen, at which time they will be subject to service in actual warfare.

With the first drafts reporting today, it is expected that within a month every eligible single man, whether attested under the Derby recruiting scheme or liable for service under the Conscription Act, will have left civilian pursuits for war duty.

Carrying out pledges to the married eligibles, made in the House of Commons, the government is rapidly digging out single men from munition factories and other governmental positions. They are being replaced by women.

The first group of married men who attested for service under the Derby plan are now beginning to assume the appearance of trained troops. They have been in service more than a month. Their ages range from nineteen to twenty-six.

My Dentist Says I Have Pyorrhea

And that it is caused by uric acid; that it is constitutional, etc., and that nothing can be done."

Time and time again such statements have been made, all of which are now being absolutely and positively proven to be old fashioned and out-of-date by hundreds of modern, progressive dentists.

When local irritation is removed, and the New School Treatments administered, it follows that a cure, or perfect comfort, is the result of such treatment.

No matter what phase of faulty metabolism exists—in every case, if treated before the tissues are so hopelessly destroyed that the teeth are ready to drop from the mouth, the cure comes rapidly and certainly.

These old fashioned teachings, about uric acid, faulty metabolism, constitutional causes, etc., give to the indolent or honestly wavering dentist a very good excuse to fold their hands and join the "nothing-can-be-done ranks."

The above is an extract from an address by the President of a Prominent College of Dentistry.

YOUTH IS CHARGED WITH WATCH THEFT AT "Y" BUILDING

Young Man Is Taken Into Custody for Grand Larceny—Recovery Watches in Chicago Pawn Shop.

Chief of Police P. D. Champion today made arrests and started to fix the blame for numerous and repeated thefts of property from the Y. M. C. A. for a period extending over a year. Marvin Roland Schenck, the nineteen-year-old son of Nicholas Schenck, 226 South Jackson street, is in custody at the city hall awaiting a hearing before the court for alleged grand larceny. The warrant is to be issued when District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie returns from Beloit this afternoon.

Champion has worked on the Y. M. C. A. thefts for over a year and today was ready to start prosecution. Today the chief went to Chicago and obtained two watches, worth over a hundred dollars, that two Janesville youths had stolen from a Chicago pawnshop. The watches were stolen from the clothing of William Smith, a jeweler.

For two years the police have recovered many stolen property articles at the association, locker rooms. Members who left their clothes hanging in the room, while in the gymnasium, or even in the individual lockers, reported thefts from watches and money. Down to pins and neckties. Besides this, gymnasium clothing and equipment disappeared in a most baffling manner, until the police were called in where the stolen watches were taken from the clothing of William Smith, a jeweler.

This theft was committed two weeks ago. One watch had a solid gold case worth sixty dollars and was a pocket watch. The other watch was only of a fair value. Both were owned by the Smith family. Other watches had been stolen, including a timepiece of a minister taken from the business men's locker room. On the same night that the two watches disappeared a pocketbook was taken with nine dollars.

Chief Champion gave the matter his personal attention. In a letter to the Chicago detective bureau trace of the two watches was found in the pawn shop of the American Loan company, 910 Hartford avenue. These watches had been pawned by two young men giving their names as Robert E. James, 226 Oneida avenue, and Mitchell J. Carlson, 114 University avenue, Madison.

When this fact had been learned, Chief Champion and William Smith went to Chicago yesterday and Smith identified his property at the pawn shop of the American Loan company, watch had been melted up by the owner of the pawnshop, so that could not be traced. The pawnshop operator of the store at first refused to return the property, but when action was threatened for receiving stolen property, the owner reconsidered and handed over the two watches.

This morning Roland Schenck was arrested and taken before Chief Champion. After asking the youth a few questions, Champion decided that he was "itching" to steal one of the watches. The two thieves got fifteen and five dollars for the two timepieces. After obtaining the pawn tickets it is alleged that they sold the tickets to the American Watch and Jewelry company, for $2.50 apiece, so as to cover up the disposal of the property. The tickets to these transactions were secured by the chief yesterday.

Schenck is not alone to blame for the thefts. He is alleged to have admitted his guilt as to the Smith watch to the police today. Two or three other boys, students at the school, were called into the station recently and questioned until they admitted several minor thefts. The police are not satisfied with their statements, believing that the aggregation of youths committed wholesale thefts at the association building for over a year. The parents of the boys implicated will be called in this afternoon to straighten out the trouble and adjust a settlement.

FORD AGENTS HOLD BUSINESS MEETING

New Methods Outlined in Efficient Salesmanship in Meeting at the Myers Hotel.

Thirty Ford agents of southern Wisconsin attended a banquet and business meeting at the Myers Hotel last evening, which was held for the purpose of giving the agents new ideas for efficient salesmanship, and also for the organization of the dealers to cooperate in their business efforts. The meeting was typical of the Ford way of transacting business, being purely for new methods of increasing the sales and service of the automobile.

A. W. L. Gilpin of Milwaukee gave a very excellent address on salesmanship and methods of selling. Mr. Gilpin stated that such meetings as was held here last evening, were and had been held in the principal cities in Wisconsin, covering all the agents. C. T. Signer, collector with the sales department in Wisconsin, in a short address, outlining new methods in the Ford business, and several of the agents from the southern part of Wisconsin, made a most enthusiastic response to the suggestions offered by the speakers.

After an excellent and well served banquet, the purpose of the session was to give the agents a moving picture of the Ford plant, the various assembling plants and branch factories were shown, and every film shown could not help but command respect and admiration for the Ford method of the production of cars. The efficiency and skill in the factories, the system used in educating the workmen and the foreigners, the safety methods for the protection of the workmen, as well as under the direct supervision of Henry Ford, all went to demonstrate the systematic and serviceable methods employed at the Ford plants.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

If you have seen "The Fool's Revenge," "A Soldier's Oath" or any of the numerous pictures of this order you may remember that you could not help admiring Kittens Reichart. She is six and a half years old, "going on seven," as she will tell you. She comes as near to being an actual moving picture star as any child of her age or experience.

But Kittens has an added distinction of which it must be confessed she is not overproud. She went through an entire year of her life without a real name. Mother and father Reichart just couldn't think of a name to give their baby and delayed the christening while they debated the subject. Meantime both called her Kittens because she played about just as kittens do. Finally her parents decided to keep the nickname they bestowed on her as her given name, so to church they went and Kittens became little Miss Reichart's honest to goodness name for all time.

FASHION FETE FOR MOVIE EXPO

"Fashion Day" at the First National Picture Exposition at Madison Square Garden, May 14, will be observed by the best-known modistes, milliners and bootmakers in New York. French mannishness and the prettiest of American models will show the very latest of the world's fashions at the forthcoming exposition.

Not only will the professional models exhibit the gowns, but the stars of the screen will also appear in the newest of woman's fancies. Film actresses are always garbed in the newest styles and are among the best patrons of the Fifth Avenue shops. In one of the recent film releases $25,000 worth of gowns were worn by the leading artist.

Wallace Reid, who is remembered as Don Jose in the production of "Carmen" in which Miss Geraldine Farrar made her debut in motion pictures will play the principal masculine role in Miss Farrar's next photoplay, "Maria Rosa," which will be shown in many cities before its regular release date.

Twelve months ago the average motion picture actor was throwing a fit if he was requested to take a character part, it being the desire of his life or

Nance O'Neil Coming Thursday. Admirers of Nance O'Neil, and their name is legion, are to be given an opportunity of seeing the celebrated sensation in a dual role when the new Lubin photoplay feature, "The Flames of Johannis," is released through the V. L. S. E. for its first showing at the Beverly on Thursday. On the stage the difficulties of the dual role are minimized by skillful handling of the lights and particularly by judicious employment of that useful apparatus known as the dimmer. When this is scientifically manipulated all acts are gray.

Beneath the intense glare of studio lights, however, the task of the player of the dual role is one of infinite art, such as is displayed by Nance O'Neil in "The Flames of Johannis," directed by Edgar Lewis for the Lubin company.

The dual role of Marika, a foundling, and Zirah, an evil old gypsy, is handled by Miss O'Neil in the manner that has gained for her the foremost rank among emotional actresses. But her real triumph is the portrayal of these two characters representing types so

AT MYERS THEATRE

There is a grain of latent superstition in all of us, whether we admit it or not, and Marion Ford, who plays Signora Monti, the Irish wife of the famous Italian grand opera tenor, has developed a superstition that is unique. She has written the business manager of "Twin Beds" asking him to tell her in which theatre the attraction plays in Janesville. Miss Ford has a hunch that if the theatre be named after a man, people will have to be turned away, and she bases this belief on the fact that the four tremendous successes which Selwyn & Co. produced in New York last season were all in theatres named after men; witness: "Twin Beds" at the Fulton theatre, "Under Cover" at the Cort, "The Lie" at the Harris, and "The Show Shop" at the Hudson. Here you have the discoverer of the noble stream which bears his name, and the man who built the first steamboat to ply its waters. Mr. W. B. is one of the theatrical magnates, and John Cort is not only the head of the Northwestern Association, with the stars reaching from Chicago to the Pacific coast, but is also a millionaire oil man and ranch man. BETTY NANSSEN SHOWN IN POWERFUL DRAMA

"The Song of Hate," Full of Thrills and Tragedies, Seen at the Beverly.

Betty Nanssen appeared yesterday at the Beverly in "The Song of Hate," a powerful modern photoplay based on Sardou's famed "Les Tisserands." The picture had a very deep theme throughout its story and brought out to a very effective degree the sorrows and emotions firmly embedded in the mire of injustice and the foundation of right and the love of one's fatherland. The story strikes deep and pictured as the Fox company could picture it from Sardou's trenchant style of tragedies, it unmercifully bared the frailties of our modern civilization. Miss Nanssen was very well adapted for the part of the much admired opera singer, "Flor Tardet," and later as she became the ill-fated tragedienne, her marvelous versatility of passion turned up well to her advantage.

The Beverly theatre has for tonight Virginia Pearson in "The Vital Question."

BEAUTIFUL SCENES IN "OUT OF THE DRIFTS"

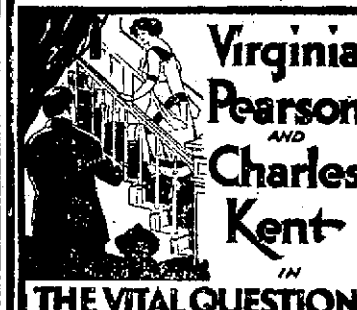

Marguerite Clark's Latest Play Staged in Alpine Atmosphere.

What Marguerite Clark's latest picture play at the Apollo lacks in plot it certainly makes up in out of door scenes. "Out of the Drifts" is plumb full of the Alps atmosphere. There are some wonderful real snow scenes, which have wisely been made much of. And there are some beautiful, rugged dogs, who add more pleasure.

Marguerite Clark, ornamentation of the picture, made it a delight to the crowded house last night. She is a Swiss mountain maid, wrapped in queer, bulky fur things part of the time, and the rest in quaint peasant garb, and always she is a picture in herself. True, the tale calls upon her to do some things scarcely in keeping with her general niceness, but not to the point of offending. She is just as witching a person as ever.

Reliability

OUR absolute faith in the Maxwell car is due to two reasons: First, we have known that the Maxwell Company uses nothing in the entire car but the very best that money can buy. We have known that the steel is scientifically heat treated, that the car is built under the supervision of able engineers, that every car is rigidly tested many times before it leaves the factory.

Second, we have known that the big and well established company behind the car is building for the future, that they value a satisfied owner above everything else.

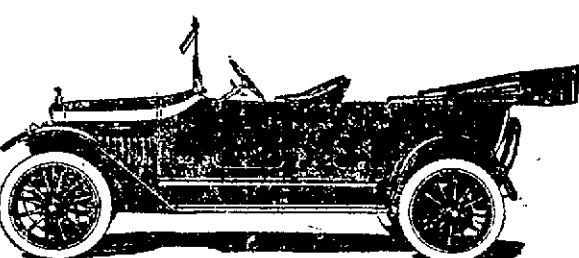

Now that the Maxwell has set the World's Motor Non-Stop Mileage Record, by traveling continuously for 44 days and nights—averaging 500 miles per day—you will understand the benefits you personally may derive from the Maxwell policy. Did you ever hear of any car going 22,000 miles without once stopping the engine, without any repairs or readjustments, with only one gallon of gasoline to every 22 miles?

There is no reason why you shouldn't have a reliable, serviceable and economical Maxwell car. The first cost is low, the operating cost is low and our pay-as-you-ride plan makes the purchase easy for everyone.

Let us see you about this now, before our allotment is exhausted.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—But No Doubt Father Will Find a Good Lot in Time

BY F. F. LEIPZIGER

Misery in Back, Headache and Pain in Limbs.

Dear Mr. Editor—For more than a year I suffered with misery in the back, dull headache, pain in the limbs, was somewhat constipated and slept poorly at night until I was about ready to collapse. Seeing an account of the wonderful qualities of "Anuric," prepared by Doctor Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., I sent for a box, and before using the whole box I felt and still feel improved. My sleep is refreshing, misery reduced, and life is not the drag it was before. I most cheerfully recommend this remedy to sufferers from like ailments.

Yours truly, W. A. ROBERTS.

NOTE: You're all undoubtedly heard of the famous Dr. Pierce and his well-known medicine. Well, this prescription is one that has been successfully used for many years by the physicians and specialists of Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for kidney complaints, and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, scalding urine, and urinary troubles.

Up to this time, "Anuric" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing Tablet, Dr. Pierce has finally decided to put it into the drug stores of this country within immediate reach of all sufferers.

I know of one or two leading druggists in town who have managed to procure a supply of "Anuric" for their anxious customers in and around this locality. If not obtainable send one dime by mail to Dr. Pierce for trial package or 50 cents for full treatment.

Editor—Please insert this letter in some conspicuous place in your paper.

Clever Deduction.
"That fellow evidently quit smoking a short time ago," Doctor Watson gave Sherlock Holmes an attentive ear and proceeded to his part of the player-up. "Why?" "He is getting so much enjoyment out of that cigar he is smoking now."

Every Cold Should Be Considered Serious

So say the best medical authorities. Unless promptly checked, often they lead to chronic bronchial and pulmonary troubles which may prove fatal.

If your cough or cold has not responded to treatment—and remember, medicine should not be solely relied on—timely use of Eckman's Alternative may give you relief.

For more than twenty years it has been benefiting sufferers from these disorders. It is especially indicated where the system demands time, for it contains calomel and chloroform combined as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Safe to try—because it contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs of any sort whatsoever.

He looked out into the lemon-colored light and smiled wanly at the next house, as Edith's grandiose phrase came to mind, "the old Vertrees country mansion." It stood in a broad lawn which was separated from the Sheridans' by a young hedge; and it was a big, square, plain old box of a house with a giant salt-cellar atop for a cupola. Paint had been spared for a long time, and no one could have put a name to the color of it, but in spite of that the place had no look of being out at heel, and the sword was as neatly trimmed as the Sheridans' own.

Directly opposite the window the Vertrees' lawn had been graded so as to make a little knoll upon which stood a small rustic "summer house." It was almost on a level with Bibbs' window and not thirty feet away. Probably the "summer house" was pleasant and pretty in summer. But now in the thin light it was desolate, the color of dust, and hung with haggard vines which had lost their leaves.

Bibbs looked at it with grave sympathy, probably feeling some kinship with anything so dismantled; then he turned to a cheval glass beside the window and paid himself the dubious tribute of a thorough inspection. Throughout this cryptic seance his manner was profoundly impersonal, but finally he appeared to become pessimistic. He shook his head solemnly; then gazed again and shook his head again, and continued to shake it slowly, in complete disapproval.

"You certainly are one horrible sight!" he said, aloud.

And at that he was instantly aware of an observer. Turning quickly, he was vouchsafed the picture of a charming lady, framed in a rustic aperture of the "summer house" and staring full into his window—straight into his eyes, too, for the infinitesimal fraction of a second before the flashingly censorious withdrawal of her own. Composedly, she pulled several dead twigs from a vine, her action conveying a proclamation to the effect that she was in the summer house for the sole purpose of suchlike pruning and tending.

Having pulled enough twigs to emphasize her unconsciousness—and at the same time her disapproval—of everything in the nature of a Sheridan or belonging to a Sheridan, she descended the knoll with maintained composure, and sauntered toward a side door of the country mansion of the Vertreeses. An elderly lady, bonneted and cloaked, opened the door and came to meet her.

"Are you ready, Mary? I've been looking for you. What were you doing?"

"Nothing. Just looking into one of Sheridans' windows," said Mary Vertrees. "I got caught at it."

"Mary!" cried her mother. "Just as we were going to call! Good heavens!"

"Well go, just the same," the daughter returned. "I suppose those women would be glad to have us if we'd burned their house to the ground."

"But who saw you?" insisted Mrs. Vertrees.

"One of the sons, I suppose he was. I believe he's insane, or something. At least I hear they keep him in a sanitarium somewhere, and never talk about him. He was staring at himself in a mirror and talking to himself. Then he looked out and caught me."

"How did he look?"

"Like a ghost in a blue suit," said Miss Vertrees, moving toward the street and waving a white-gloved hand in farewell to her father, who was observing them from the window of his library. "Rather tragic and altogether impossible. Do come on, mother, and let's get it over!"

And Mrs. Vertrees, with many misgivings, set forth with her daughter for the gracious assault upon the new house next door.

CHAPTER IV.

Mr. Vertrees, having watched their departure with the air of a man who had something at hazard upon the expedition, turned from the window and began to pace the library thoughtfully, pending their return. He was about sixty; a small man, withered and dry and fine, a trim little sketch of the elderly dandy. His lambrquin mustache, like his smooth hair, was approaching an equally sheer whiteness; and though his clothes were old, they had shapeliness and a flavor of mode.

The room was cheerful and hideous. Under a mantle of imitation black marble a merry little coal fire beamed forth upon high and narrow "Eastlake" bookcases with long glass doors, comfortable, incongruous furniture, half a dozen Landseer engravings which Mr. and Mrs. Vertrees sometimes mentioned to each other, after thirty years of possession, as "very fine things." They had been the first people in town to possess Landseer engravings, and there, in art, they had rested, but they still had a feeling that in all such matters they were in the van.

The growth of the city, which might easily have made Mr. Vertrees a millionaire, had ruined him because he had failed to understand it. When towns begin to grow they have whims, and the whims of a town always ruin somebody. The dainty little man was one of the first to fall down and worship Bigness. He was a true prophet of the prodigious growth, but he had a fatal gift for selling good and buying bad. He sold his inherited office building and house in town to buy lots; then he sold his farm, except the house and the ground about it, to pay taxes on the lots. But he had to do something to keep himself and his family up, so in despair he sold the lots (which went up beautifully the next year) for "traction stock" that was paying dividends; and disappeared altogether from the commercial surface at about the time James Sheridan came out securely on top.

But there came a day when three servitors of Bigness in Philadelphia took greedy counsel with four fellow worshippers from New York, and not long after that there were no more dividends for Mr. Vertrees. In fact, there was nothing for Mr. Vertrees, because the "traction stock" henceforth was no stock at all, and he had mortgaged his house long ago to help "manage somehow" according to his conception of his "position in life"—one of his own old-fashioned phrases. Mr. Vertrees had discovered, too, that there was no salary for him in all the buzzing city—he could do nothing.

It may be said that he was at the end of his string. Such times do come in all their bitterness, finally, to the man with no trade or craft, if his feeble clutch on that slippery ghost, Property, shall fail.

The windows grew black while he paced the fan-shaped zone of firelight. But as the mantle clock struck wheezy six there was the rattle of an outer door, and Mary Vertrees came rushing into the library and threw herself into a deep chair by the hearth, laughing so uncontrollably that tears were in her eyes. Mrs. Vertrees followed decorously, no loath about her; on the contrary, she looked vaguely disturbed, as if she had eaten something not quite certain to agree with her, and regretted it.

"Papa! Oh, oh!" And Miss Vertrees was fain to apply a handkerchief upon her eyes. "I'm so glad you made us go! I wouldn't have missed it!"

Mrs. Vertrees shook her head. "I suppose I'm very dull," she said, gently. "I didn't see anything amusing. They're most ordinary, and the house is altogether in bad taste, but we anticipated that, and—"

"Papa!" Mary cried, breaking in.

"They asked us to dinner?"

"What?"

"And I'm going!" she shouted, and was seized with fresh paroxysms. "Think of it! Never in their house before; never met any of them but the daughter—and just barely met her—"

"What about you?" interrupted Mr. Vertrees, turning sharply upon his wife.

She made a little face as if positive now that what she had eaten would not agree with her. "I couldn't!" she said. "I—"

"Yes, that's just—just the way she—she looked when they asked her!" cried Mary, choking. "And then she—she realized it, and tried to turn it into a cough, and she didn't know how, and it sounded like—like a squeal!"

"I suppose," said Mrs. Vertrees, much injured, "that Mary will have an uproarious time at my funeral. She makes fun of—"

Mary jumped up instantly and kissed her; then she went to the mantel and, leaning an elbow upon it, gazed thoughtfully at the buckle of her shoe, twinkling in the firelight.

"They didn't notice anything," she said. "So far as they were concerned, mamma, it was one of the finest coughs you ever coughed."

"Who were they?" asked her father. "Whom did you see?"

"Only the mother and daughter," Mary answered. "Mrs. Sheridan is dumpy and rusty; and Miss Sheridan is pretty and pushing—dresses by the fashion magazines and talks about New York people that have their pictures in 'em. She tutors the mother, but not very successfully—partly because her own foundation is too flimsy and partly because she began too late. They've got an enormous Moor of painted plaster or something in the hall, and the girl evidently thought it was to her credit that she selected it!"

"They have oil-paintings, too," added Mrs. Vertrees, with a glance of gentle pride at the Landseers. "I've always thought oil-paintings in a private house the worst of taste."

"Oh, if one owned a Raphael or a Titian!" said Mr. Vertrees, finishing the implication, not in words, but with a wave of his hand. "Go on, Mary. None of the rest of them came in? You didn't meet Mr. Sheridan or—"

He paused and adjusted a hump of coal in the fire delicately with the poker. "Or one of the sons?"

Mary's glance crossed his, at that, with a flash of utter comprehension. He turned instantly away, but she had begun to laugh again.

"No," she said, "no one except the women, but mamma inquired about the sons thoroughly!"

"Mary?" Mrs. Vertrees protested. "Oh, most adroitly, too!" laughed the girl. "Only she couldn't help unconsciously turning to look at me—when she did it!"

"Mary Vertrees!"

"Never mind, mamma! Mrs. Sheridan and Miss Sheridan neither of them could help unconsciously turning to look at me—speculatively—at the same time! They all three kept looking at me and talking about the oldest son, Mr. James Sheridan, Jr. Mrs. Sheridan said his father is very anxious to get Jim to marry and settle down, and she assured me that Jim is right cultivated." Another of the sons, youngest one, they didn't seem to consider quite one of themselves, somehow. The other brother is the middle one, Roscoe; he's the one that owns the new house across the street, where that young black sheep of the Lammons, Robert, goes so often. Papa—"

She stepped nearer to him so that he had to face her; and his eyes were troubled as he did. There may have been a trouble deep within her own, but she kept their surface merry with laughter. "Papa, Bibbs—the youngest one's name, and Bibbs—to the best of our information—is a lunatic. Roscoe is married. Papa, does it have to be Jim?"

"Mary!" Mrs. Vertrees cried, sharply. "You're outrageous! That's a perfectly horrible way of talking!"

"Well, I'm close to twenty-four," said Mary, turning to her. "I haven't been able to like anybody yet that's asked me to marry him, and maybe I never shall. Until a year or so ago I've had everything I ever wanted in my life—you and papa gave it all to me—and it's about time I began to pay back. Unfortunately, I don't know how to do anything—but something's got to be done."

"But you needn't talk of it like that!" insisted the mother, plaintively. "It's not—it's not—"

"No, it's not," said Mary. "I know that!"

"How did they happen to ask you to dinner?" Mrs. Vertrees inquired, uneasily. "Sexton's thing?"

"Climbers' hospitality," Mary defined it. "We were so very cordial and easy! It's a sort of house-warming dinner, and they talked about it and talked about it—and then the girl got her courage up and blurted out the invitation. And mamma said that you and she had promised to go to a lecture at the Emerson club tonight, but that her daughter would be delighted to come to the big show! So there I am, and there's Mr. Jim Sheridan—and there's the clock! Dinner's at seven-thirty!"

And she ran out of the room, scooping up her fallen furs with a gesture of flying grace as she sped.

When she came down, at twenty minutes after seven, her father stood in the hall, at the foot of the stairs, waiting to be her escort through the dark. He looked up and watched her as she descended, and his gaze was fond and proud—and profoundly disturbed. But she smiled and nodded gaily, and when she reached the floor, put a hand on his shoulder.

"At least no one could suspect me tonight," she said. "I look rich, don't I, papa?"

"Can you suggest a good motto to hang up in the dining room?" asked the boarding house mistress.

"How about 'Forgive us this day our daily bread?'" suggested the man who was going to move the next day any how.

"I shouldn't call this a desirable apartment," said the lady who was looking for rooms. "There's a saloon only three doors away."

"That's just the point," replied the agent. "I think what a comfort it will be to know that your husband is never far from home."

"But you needn't talk of it like that!" insisted the mother, plaintively. "It's not—it's not—"

WILLIAMS' CLOUTING WINS GAME FOR CUBS

Batting Bee Is Won by Bruins Over Redlegs—Sax Finally Come Through With a Victory.

Chicago, May 9.—Fred Williams' triple broke up Tuesday's game with Cincinnati and gave Chicago an 8 to 5 victory. After two men were out in the eighth inning, Fredendegast started the winning rally with a single. Schulte and Plack followed with safe hits, filling the bases. Williams followed with his timely hit, which gave the locals the game. Zimmerman scored Williams with a single, then stole second and third, and clinched the game by scoring on Clarke's wild throw to third.

The game was a batting bee, each club hitting frequently, the visitors overcoming Chicago's early lead and forcing Sexton and Pierce to retire. Fredendegast checked the scoring of Cincinnati. Mitchell lasted but one inning for Cincinnati, and Schaefer had little difficulty until the eighth, when after two men had retired, the locals filled the bases. He gave way to Schulte and Williams was the first man to face him.

Fourier's Homer.
New York, May 9.—Chicago played an up-hill game here on Tuesday and defeated New York by a score of 5 to 4. With Chicago four runs behind in the fourth inning, Fourier made a home run with two on bases. Jackson's triple and McMullen's single tied the score. Chicago scored the winning run in the fifth. The Yankees knocked Williams out of the box in the fourth inning, but could do nothing with Cicotte.

MILTON COLLEGE WINS GAME FROM WHITEWATER

Milton Wisconsin, May 9.—Last Friday, Milton college administered to her old rival, Whitewater normal school, a defeat in the national pastime, on the normal grounds, 2 to 1. Randolph, who did the twirling for the college, was at no time in danger, and allowed the Normalites but five hits, only two of which came in one inning. Muldoon, the Normal star, acquired nineteen strike-outs for his record, but let Milton touch him for eight safeties, one of which was a sizzling two-bagger by Burdick. In the first inning Milton showed her fighting spirit by landing on Muldoon and taking advantage of bobbles by his team mates until three tallies were counted up. After this the Whitewater men stopped the scoring. In the fourth, the Normalites ran across on a hit, stolen base and error, and in the eighth another score was made when a Whitewater man stole home, setting to an injury to Milton's catcher. The game was exceptionally fast and interesting throughout. Line-up:
Milton: Sorenson, cf; West, 3b; Randolph, p; Ormsby, cf; Landwehr, 2b; Thorngate, 1b; Lush, lf; Burdick, c; Greene, ss.

NEED FUNDS TO BACK CITY BASEBALL CLUB

GOOD GAMES ASSURED

GUARANTEE FUND WILL BE RAISED TO INSURE SUCCESSFUL CARDINAL TEAM THIS SEASON.

Nine-Game Series With Beloit Fairies Will Feature Early Schedule—Meet Monroe Sunday in Opening Tilt.

For the purpose of putting a winning baseball club in the field to represent the city, to compose a nine that will be able to compete successfully with the crack Fairbanks-Morse nine of Beloit; and to advertise Jamesville with a winning team, contributions and small subscriptions will be sought to back a ball club in Jamesville. The club desires to have financial backing to start the season, and to insure success for a schedule of games to be played on Sundays and holidays, which will afford the best diamond sport that this city has experienced in recent years.

Sunday the baseball lid will come off in this city, when the new Cardinals meet the Monroe team at the Association park. With this game as a starter, George Calkins is planning a nine-game series with the Beloit Fairies, games with the best Chicago "semi-pro" clubs and noted western teams, provided sufficient funds are raised to guarantee against a loss. The Cardinals are going after the scalp of the last Beloit team, which they defeated last year; but they need a stronger club to turn the trick.

Diamond Secured.
The Park association diamond was secured under a contract for $250. A full schedule that allow at least twenty games to be played, and if a fair sum is raised, a stellar aggregation of baseball players will be secured and kept together throughout the season. Last year the team was shifted about so much, new players being put in, until the whole team would be changed; but this fault will be remedied this summer.

The diamond will be improved this week. The infield will be "skinned" ten feet to make the ground faster and to allow the infielders to cover more space. The infield is now rough and will have to be dragged and leveled to make the surface true on grounded balls. The outfield needs rolling. The only fault with the Park association diamond is that the grandstand is situated too far back from the home plate, and the personal touch of the game is lost to a more or less extent.

New uniforms were secured for the Cardinals this week to be used this season.

Blake Is Secured.
The Cardinals this year will be led by "Denny" Blake of Belvidere. A better field manager could not be secured in semi-pro baseball. He played second for the Cardinals last year and proved himself to be the best player on the team. Being a skillful fielder, a hard and consistent batsman and an experienced player, Blake is the logical man to lead the Cardinals.

For pitchers, Caldwell will have a corps of good slab men. Pete Fleming of this city, who has batted for the winning Blackhawk nine for two years, will be given an opportunity of showing his mound prowess with the Cards. Along with Fleming, the Cardinals will have English, an ex-Federal leaguer, who was a top-notch pitcher in the outlay circuit. Chamberlain will also be obtained for utility work. "Red" Ormsby, the big moose, who pitched the Cardinals to a victory over Beloit, will be here to hurl in the games when pitching strength is urgently needed—for instance, the Beloit series.

Secure Catchers.
Three catchers are being considered for the Cardinals. Silverthorn, the young Footville backstop, will probably play in the Monroe game, with Fleming on the mound to start. Silverthorn, it is safe to say, will produce the goods. In Footville, he declares him to be as good as any minor leaguer at catching and throwing, and this is not overstating his ability. Hanson, who caught for the Rockford Three-Bye league, and a player named Eagen are also being considered, but the fans are pulling to see Silverthorn deliver with the Cardinals. "Bob" Delaney, the stocky Chicago catcher, may be secured later in the season if sufficient money is secured.

For the infield, a leaguer named Cronk will play first, with Blake at second. Phillips, former Beloit player, will start at third. No one has been picked for the short field as yet. Miller of Peoria will be one of the fielders Sunday, and he is one "sweet" stickler. Durham of Racine, a heavy outer and one of the best fielders in the minor circuits is being sought. If "Duke" Durham is obtained, he had better move their outfield back another twenty feet.

Plenty of Players.
There are a number of good players without contracts this year, due to the closing of the Federal league and failure of a number of minor circuits to start a schedule this year. Players for the Cardinals, it is planned, will be under contract for the whole season, provided they show the goods in the early games. Chicago big leaguers can be secured on certain dates for Sunday games, providing financial backing is secured. With either the Cubs or White Sox, when the team goes on a swing around the circle, one or two pitchers are left at home with a couple of recruits. Arrangements can be made whereby these players can play games outside the major leagues, and they can be secured here.

Jamesville needs a winning baseball team. Last year more enthusiasm over baseball was displayed than in the last fifteen years. The attendance was good at the last of the season, but unfavorable weather cost the club money. In Fort Atkinson $2,000 was raised for their team, and in McHenry $1,400, and on this money the backers can hold their teams without worry over the financial results.

The success of the Lakota Cardinals in basketball achieved creditable advertising for the city, and the same will result if a winning nine is put into the field.

WISCONSIN DEFEATS NORTHWESTERN, 9-3

Badgers Swamp Northwestern at Evanston by Count of 9 to 3.—Beloit and Armour Play Tie.

Chicago, May 9.—Bunching their hits with bases on balls and errors, the University of Wisconsin baseball team won from Northwestern Tuesday afternoon at Evanston by the score of 9 to 3.

Smith, who started for Northwestern, did not last through the first inning. He hit Brennan, the first man up, and singles by Lewis and Simpson followed, which scored two runs. Peterson and Reese were passed. With the bases full, Smith was taken out and Newby went in. A hit by Bulware scored two more.

Northwestern's run's were made in the second and sixth innings. The locals made a total of seven errors.

Beloit 4, Armour 2.
Beloit, Wis., May 9.—By smashing the first home run over the right field fence in Hancock field history, Paskill brought in two runs and saved Armour institute of Chicago from being blanked in the seventh inning Tuesday afternoon. Beloit won 4 to 2.

Score:
Armour 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 2 3 5
Beloit 0 0 2 0 1 0 0 0 4 6 8
Batteries—For Beloit, Phillips and Rogan; for Armour, Brown and Paskill.

Manager Charley Herzog of the Reds recently was quoted as saying he would keep Heinie Peitz all season as coach. Somebody seems to have crossed him, for announcement comes that Heinie has drawn his release.

OHIO STATE CLUBS START ON SCHEDULE

Begins Ninth Season With Bright Prospects for Success—Oldest Class D Circuit.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Columbus, O., May 10.—The Ohio State league began its ninth season today with the outlook for the coming year the best in its history.

It is the oldest Class "D" aggregation in the country to operate continually. It has clubs at Charleston and Huntington in West Virginia; Marysville, Lexington and Frankfort, Kentucky, and Portsmouth, Ohio.

Portsmouth has the only club that has operated a continuous franchise and still retains its membership. Portsmouth will play at Marysville today, Huntington at Charleston and Lexington at Frankfort.

On May 12 and 13 the openings will be reversed and Marysville will play at Portsmouth, Charleston at Huntington and Frankfort at Lexington.

After these dates the clubs will play four games on each visit. The schedule provides for three trips around the circuit for each club.

A two season schedule has been adopted. The first season closes July 6, the second beginning July 8 and closing Labor Day. The teams winning the pennant in the respective seasons will play a post season series.

The Ohio State league is looked upon by major league scouts as a fertile field for the development of young players. Among the Class "A" players today who have seen service in the Ohio league are: Jake Daubert, Brooklyn; Baumgardner and Carl Wellman, St. Louis Browns; Al. Marmou, Pittsburgh; Sam Jones and Hank Gowdy, Boston Red Sox, and Lee Fohl, manager of the Cleveland Indians.

The league not only has the reputation of sending the largest number of Class "D" rookies to the majors, but contributes at least one umpire to the higher leagues each season.

These ex-big leaguers are in charge of the teams this year: Chester Sparger, former National and International first baseman, at Portsmouth; Jimmy Jones, National and Eastern league outfielder, at Marysville; Wart Powell, Pacific coast league outfielder, in charge of the Charleston club; Huntington is headed by Kemper Shel-

BAUMANN'S COLTS DEFEAT BLUE RIBBON BOWLERS

The Blue Ribbon five continued on a little losing streak and last night at the Miller alleys they lost to Baumann's Colts by only forty-two pins.

Pitcher rolled the high score in the second event by getting two hundred and ten of the maples. Following are the scores.

IS FREDDIE WELSH AGAIN KIDDING OR DOES HE MEAN IT?

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
New York, May 10.—Freddie Welsh and Challenger Charlie White were on Tuesday practically matched to meet at Buenos Ayres, Argentina, some time in late July or August.

Fans there have offered $20,000 for the bout. If the money is posted the boxers will leave here July 2. The bout, if staged, will be twenty rounds. Dickerings are now being made to have Jack Britton and Ted Lewis also meet in the Argentine capital.

Ertle Stops Burns.
St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—Johnny Ertle of St. Paul, who claims the world's bantamweight championship, scored a technical knockout over Bobbie Burns of Dallas, Tex., here Tuesday night in the fourth of a ten round bout. Burns was knocked down four times in the fourth round, and the referee stopped the fight.

Northwestern league clubs, because of unfavorable weather that has interfered with training, have extended until May 17 the time for cutting down teams to the thirteen-player limit. Possibly if the attendance is good a more liberal limit will be allowed than the unlucky thirteen.

Detroit is showing that Jennings failed to get the pitching he needed, and without good twirling he cannot be given a chance, because the weakness of the defensive department cannot be offset by the great offensive strength of which he can boast. Cleveland has beaten the Tigers because it has been able to hit their pitchers accurately, while the Indians' twirlers have been unable to hold the Detroit sluggers at bay.

Your Money Buys Quality!

Coupons or premiums have never been used as an inducement to smoke Prince Albert!

The correctness of our belief that smokers do prefer quality rather than premiums or coupons is proven by the enthusiasm with which Prince Albert pipe and cigarette tobacco has been received throughout the civilized world! Premiums or coupons have never been offered as an inducement to smoke it!

Neither national nor state restrictions on the use of premiums or coupons can in any way affect Prince Albert's sale!

It is not to be wondered at that when smokers consider a choice of tobaccos, their tastes—based on quality—instantly turn them to the national joy smoke

Prince Albert is sold strictly on merit. It is a tobacco of choice quality, and made by an exclusive patented process that does cut out bite and parch! It took three years and a fortune to perfect that process so that today every man with a desire to smoke a pipe or roll his own cigarettes can do so without a comeback, no matter how tender his tongue or throat may be!

Your taste and satisfaction is proof that Prince Albert quality is more desirable than coupons or premiums.

You buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold, in tippy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome round and half-pound tin humidors, and in that fine crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such perfect condition.

THE WOMEN'S COUNCIL "Let Us Meet and Counsel Together"

Edited by MRS. ABBIE HELMS

ARBOR DAY.
Notice is given by the conservation committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs that it is hoped a special attention will be given to the question of saving the birds. This committee have labored incessantly toward that end and hope that the question will be taken up by the women's clubs all over the country who will use every effort in this direction. A special program at the meeting of the Biennial in New York will have to do with the conservation of birds. A resume of this work and a report of what it is desired to accomplish. In the meantime the slogan is "Educate the Children to Save the Birds."

THE LOCAL BIRDS.

Although the season has so far been unfavorable for some kinds of vegetation, it has been a glorious one for the birds, who have flourished amazingly on the budding greenery and on the insect life. The children should be taught of the birds that "They are the winged wardens of our farms,

Who from the cornfield drive the insects,
And from your harvest keep a hundred harms."

The robin is a constant insect destroyer. In fact, he is the most faithful companion of man. He is the earliest arrival in the spring and the marshal of the feathered hosts.

"The robin and the bluebird piping loud,
Filled all the blossoming orchards
with their glee."

is something which well describes the springtime.
They are cheerful and friendly, but are poor housekeepers and build an untidy and carelessly constructed nest. The woodpecker is a neighborly fellow, living in orchards and gardens and ornamenting the fruit trees with rows of holes. He does not injure the trees, as some people think, but merely bores a hole under the bark. The red-headed woodpecker wears the German flag in his red, white and black feathers. He nests in a hole in a blasted tree and eats quantities of insects.

The wren is also a sociable and lively individual and seems to prefer the company of mankind. They like to build in boxes and corners near a home and they live entirely on insects. There are many varieties of wrens, more than 150 varieties in both hemispheres, and they are grouped under the general term "trogloclides," which is Greek, meaning "one that creeps into holes."

The common wren of Europe, which is very like our best known wren, has many net names. The French have given it more than a hundred endearing names, and German, Italian and other countries have done nearly as well. In the folklore of those countries the wren is credited with being a transformed fairy and with an amount of wisdom far greater than its size would indicate.

The flicker is also a wood pecker and is a genial, good-natured bird. Its tick-a-wick and hammering is one of the first signs of spring. In some sections it remains all the year round. The bluejay also sometimes remains through the winter, and it ranges all over the United States from Canada to Texas. They have a brilliant coloring, a crest and a bold flight. They eat quantities of insects, and also, sorry to say, eggs of other birds, besides fruits and berries. They are devoted parents to their young, but also bold bandits who snatch to rob and steal. Some one has likened the note of the bluejay as "the noisy jay jargonizing like a foreigner in his food."

The sparrow is also a bold, bad villain of the fields and woodlands. He is a coward with a hoarse voice and disagreeable punners. If he does steal some of the farmer's corn, he also eats quantities of May beetles, crickets, grasshoppers, cut worms and caterpillars.

"And hungry crows assembled in a crowd,
Clamored their piteous prayer incessantly."

The cat bird is especially a garden bird. He is very tame and is largely on insects, especially moths. He is a merry, rippling jester and nests in bush or tree.

"The thrush that carolled at the break of day,
From the green steeples of the piny wood"

is a great favorite with everyone who loves its modesty and its sweet song.

Then there are the
"Linnets and meadow lark and all the throng
That dwell in nests and have the gift of song."

They are all on the hunt for the insects which destroy plant life and they consume quantities of them, where found.

Toward twilight the whippoorwill, whose dusky, spotted plumage blends into the brown and gray of rocks and trees, begins to wake the echoes with its strange cries. The mother bird will sometimes carry the young in her mouth to a safe place, if disturbed in the nest. They eat quantities of insects, especially the night flying moths.

The owls are also on the watch for insects and for small animals like mice and moles. There are several kinds of owls, like the barn, twilight and cat owl, and are useful about the farm or garden.

The sand piper is picking up the insects along the benches and mud flats, half shy, but sociable and busy. Lucy Larcum says of them:

"Staunch friends are we, well tried and strong,
The little sand piper and I."

And then there are the words of the poet Longfellow, who is loved by all children, which should teach them to be ever gentle to their feathered friends:

"Do you never think who made them
And who taught them
The dialect they speak and their melodies of thought,
'Tis morning somewhere and from shore to shore
Somewhere, the birds are singing evermore."

N. B. The foregoing was written last year in response to the appeal of R. Shepherd, who is chairman of the meetings to the children, that they might learn to know and love the local birds.

LEAGUE OF AMERICAN SPORTSMEN.

President Shields of This Body Asks That True Sportsmen Refrain From Killing the Birds and Help in Their Preservation.

Robins, thrushes, orioles, prairie chickens and quail are of financial value to the farmers and sportsmen, by killing the birds, leave the crops open to attacks by insects which the birds destroy.

"The grain growers are losing over $100,000,000 a year on account of the birds," says Mr. Shields. "They are losing another $200,000,000 a year on account of the work of the Hessian fly. Both of these are small insects, almost invisible in size. It takes over 2,000 chinch bugs to weigh an ounce. A quail killed in a wheat field in Ohio and examined by a government expert, had in its crop the remains of over 1,200 chinch bugs that had eaten that day. Another quail killed in a wheat field in Kansas, and examined by another government expert, had in its crop the remains of over 2,000 Hessian flies that it had eaten that day."

The farmers of the northern states are paying out $16,000,000 to $17,000,000 a year for Paris green to put on their crops. It is taken over 2,000 chinch bugs to weigh an ounce. A quail killed in a wheat field in Ohio and examined by a government expert, had in its crop the remains of over 1,200 chinch bugs that had eaten that day. Another quail killed in a wheat field in Kansas, and examined by another government expert, had in its crop the remains of over 2,000 Hessian flies that it had eaten that day."

"A quail killed in a potato field in Pennsylvania and examined by a government expert, had in its crop the remains of 127 potato bugs."

"If the quails were here in their normal numbers, as they were thirty years ago, there would be no use of using Paris green anywhere in the country," Paris green is a deadly poison.

Mr. Shields said that 90 per cent of the birds have been killed and that an army of men and boys are out to kill the remaining 10 per cent.

THE CITY OF SONG BIRDS.

In St. Paul, Minn., the boys like to go to school and when they get to the sixth grade it is hard to get them to do anything but sing. At that stage they begin manual training work, and they make bird houses. It is rare to find a sixth grade kid who is not putting the finishing touches to a bird house. In fact, the boys are all doing, three or four thousand of them, you can see the lads coming down every street in town to the registration office. There they enter the names of their bird houses and house exhibit, whereupon the contest really begins, and the whole city is interested. There are lots of prizes offered for the best and prettiest of these hundreds of people buy them to adorn their grounds. The city buy them for the parks, and even the real estate owners find it adds to the value of their holdings to have a few bird houses placed in their additions. But some of the boys won't sell. They want to see the prospective tenants of the homes set up housekeeping. And there is a very special prize offered for the husky boy who is the first to have a tenant. There are more wild song birds housed in St. Paul than in any other city in America. A significant result of the movement is the humane society has come out of business as far as bird killing warrants are concerned. Every boy in town is the legal guardian of the birds, and the wicked slingshot is a device unknown in that locality.

CHICAGO CHILDREN CELEBRATE ARBOR DAY.

Pupils from many grammar and high schools and settlement houses in Chicago, with dances, drills and tree planting, celebrated Arbor day, May 5, with a festival at Stuart Park. Seven trees were put into the ground by the pupils of the different schools. The Foster School planted a "Peace Tree" in memory of the World War. The Commercial School christened theirs the "America First Tree" and the "Community Tree." One tree was given as a memorial to G. W. Thompson and his Bohemian dances, by Henry Booth House, Indian club drills by pupils of the Swing School, Russian, Rumanian and old English folk dances, and songs.

BIRD PLUMAGE BURNED.

Women who in spite of arguments of the Aurobor society would wear birds' plumage in their millinery if they could get it, will think a great waste was committed at Laredo, Tex., Tuesday, when government officials burned twenty-five thousand dollars' worth of bird of paradise plumes, which had been seized in the baggage of a dealer who was trying to get them across the border. Originally they came from India, but it was supposed that they could get in at Laredo from Mexico with less danger of detection than at an eastern port like New York. But the attempt failed.

ANOTHER COUNT OF BIRDS.

The third annual bird count of the United States will be made by the Bureau of Biology Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture during the breeding season in May and June. In making this survey the bureau will rely largely on persons interested in birds who agree to act as voluntary enumerators and count the different kinds of birds found in a forty or eighty acre farm or woodland tract near their homes. The counts to be made by unpaid observers during the last two summer months have furnished to the department valuable data on the character, number and distribution of the bird population.

LECTURE ON BIRD LIFE.

The feature of the annual meeting of the Illinois Audubon Society, held in Fullerton Hall, Art Institute, Saturday, April 29, was a lecture on bird life illustrated with moving pictures taken by Norman McClintock of Pittsburg, who spent several months in Louisiana, along the Gulf coast and on the Florida Keys in an effort to get a complete set of views of American birds. At his talk he showed herons and other birds that have been almost exterminated by algereite hunters and other plumage dealers. The Illinois society has proposed a number of projects for protecting birds in the state. The meeting was open to the public.

WOMAN AS GAME WARDEN.

The first woman game warden to be appointed in Kentucky is Miss Annie Lee Samuels of Frankfort. She says she accepted the commission that she might lend a hand in the conservation of the game and song birds of Kentucky.

NOTES FROM THE D. A. R.

Dear Editor: A few notes from the great Congress recently held in closed in our national city, all churches in Washington, D. C., held patriotic services before the opening of our twenty-fifth congress on Sunday, April 16.

The formal opening Monday morning, April 17, was heralded by Arthur Whitcomb, bugler of the United States Marine Band. This elegant band was present nearly everywhere and patriotic music was the generous offering. The first social function was a most brilliant one, given Monday evening by Mrs. Story, president general, and her national board. Continental Memorial Hall to more than 3,500 Daughters and friends, Mrs. William H. Crosby, our vice president general, of Racine, Wis., also occupied the Marine Band played the music continuously, and I notice the music throughout the week was usually patriotic. The Southern Society entertained in the Willard ball room, and one of the most beautiful reception and dances in honor of the D. A. R.

President and Mrs. Wilson received at the White House at 5:30 o'clock in the old historic, East room, 2,000 daughters, and a little earlier 500 Children of the American Revolution. Mrs. Wilson received in a lovely gown of orchid satin, brocaded in silver.

Hundreds of delegates to the twenty-fifth congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who had arrived in Washington previous to the opening session, had a busy time. While there was only one business meeting—that of the national board of management—consisting of all the general officers, headed by Mrs. William Cummings Story, president general, two trips to historic spots in the morning and afternoon and a reception at night fully occupied the time of the Daughters.

The picture of the president, president general, never appeared to greater advantage than she did at the opening of the twenty-fifth congress of the D. A. R. Mrs. Story's gown presented the most beautiful combination of purple and gray.

Mrs. Story paid an eloquent compliment to the magazine committee, of which Miss Finch of New York is chairman. She said in the platform pages, Miss Alice McDuffee presented the other gifts for the floor pages.

Mrs. Story won universal praise for her non-partisan manner in which she directed herself throughout the congress.

Delegates Make Trip to Mount Vernon. Assisted by the president general and the State Regent of the National Society, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the District branch observed the 125th anniversary of the laying of the first milestone of the federal jurisdiction at the District line near Chesapeake Junction.

The ceremony marked the completion of the inclosing of the east cornerstone of the District, which was laid by George Washington April 15, 1791.

Deed Given Col. Harts. An interesting feature was the delivery of a deed to Col. V. H. Harts, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, and in return aid to the president, who accepted it in behalf of the federal government. He then read a letter from President Wilson.

The participation of Mrs. Frank F. Greenawald, District State regent of the D. A. R., was especially noteworthy in her administration that the committee was organized for the preservation of records, and it was largely due to her efforts that the committee decided that the records included the historic stone.

Features of the Program. The program included an address by Mrs. William Cummings Story, president of the Daughters of the American Revolution; the presentation of the deed by Robinson White, and the acceptance by Mrs. George P. Conway, chairman of the District committee on historic sites and orders; a floral ceremony by the Children of the American Revolution, directed by Mrs. Ellis Logan, and an address by Mrs. George T. S. Good, vice president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The invocation was by the Rev. Paul Hickok, while Mrs. Mary L. Lockwood gave the benediction.

It certainly is very amusing whenever the death of a real Daughter occurs it is stated the last living D. A. R. has passed away. We have seventy-two now living. Fifteen died in 1915.

ADA P. KIMBERLEY.

MISSION CIRCLE OF THE BAPTIST CHURCH

About fifty ladies enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. B. F. Dunwiddie on last Friday afternoon and listened to the very interesting talk given by Mrs. Robert Black, lately returned from the Philippines. Mrs. Black was formerly Miss George G. Gager of this city, and has many warm friends who are glad to welcome her return, if only for a brief interval.

Her talk, after taking up the geographical situation of their mission field of Davao on the island of Mindanao, was mostly devoted to the work of the mission schools and of the mission hospital. She spoke of Davao as being the last "jumping place" of the island. She described the children as being good workers in the Sunday school, and the young people in the Christian Endeavor Society as being very loyal to their teachers; that many of them give to the fees of home and kindred to embrace Christianity and become preachers of the gospel. The morning service in the church is given in Spanish, and the evening in Visayan. The hospital has thirty beds, and a launch goes long distances, sometimes ninety miles down the bay, to bring in the sick. There are now four mission schools connected with the hospital, and they teach the three R's, with the emphasis on religion. The older people are won through their children. One Bogobo village which practiced the rite of human sacrifice only two years ago now has a school of forty children and the people are learning the arts of civilization. Another school of eighty pupils is held on the estate of a wealthy native, and the mission. The children of the town came to play with Carlota, shared her playthings and sand pile, and enjoyed a Christmas tree with her at the holiday season. Now there is a kindergarten conducted by Mrs. Black in connection with the mission, and a story hour held on every Friday afternoon on the lawn in front of the church.

An amusing incident was related concerning the entertainment of the king of a Bogobo village and his relatives, and how the missionary conducted an exchange of eggs, seeds and cuttings with them.

Many pictures were shown, illustrating the primitive life of the natives, and the program closed with a brief service of prayer.

Mrs. Catchpole, president of this mission circle, Mrs. B. F. Dunwiddie is vice president, and Mrs. Jessie Campbell is secretary.

Light refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed at the close of the afternoon.
